Dear State Land Use Commission, Members of the Land Use Commission, Roz Baker, State Senator, Kaniela Ing, Kihei State House Representative, Angus McKelvey, Lahaina State House of Representatives, and Governor David Ige,

We are pleased to present you with this petition affirming this statement:

"On November 18th we need to let the Hawaii State Land Use Commission know that we reject the plan for an Olowalu town development and we reject the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) that Frampton and Ward are presenting in order to build their 1700-home city at Olowalu. This city will increase the West Maui population by over 4,000 residents and 3,000 more cars on an already overcrowded infrastructure. In addition, marine biologists from around the world have said it will likely kill our largest, oldest and extremely priceless coral reef ecosystem that house 700+ year old coral colonies, endangered monk seals, sea turtles, fish, invertebrates and other endemic species.

What's at stake?

- Our ocean, reef eco-system (700 year old kupuna coral), limu and fish
- Existing roads and traffic are already horrible; imagine 3,000 more cars
- Our streams and aquifers
- Over-crowded schools
- Loss of prime agricultural land
- Public access to the coastline
- Traditional and customary use of Olowalu lands and waters

Please sign the petition and, if possible, show up to testify on Wednesday, Nov. 18, 2015 at 9:30 AM. We only have seven days to get the word out.

<https://www.facebook.com/events/1517489378544315/>

Attached is a list of individuals who have added their names to this petition, as well as additional comments written by the petition signers themselves.

Sincerely,
John Fitzpatrick

No development on Olowalu! One of Maui's last pristine reefs and essential for the health and vitality of our island ecosystem. As a marine biologist I am against any development in this area!

The development of Olowalu is probably the most inappropriate decision to make in consideration of the lacking infrastructure and destruction of the coral reef and sealife that feed off it. Too much as stake

Just moved to Colorado and I was born and raised in Lahaina. Graduated Lahainaluna 2013. I have spent many beautiful days in Olowalu and I know the impact that allowing more homes and a town will do to the native life that resides their. West Maui is already over developed and Olowalu is sacred ground. We shall forbid even the thought of developing more in Olowalu.

Please do a very comprehensive Environmental Impact Statement as the reef and cultural heritage at Olowalu is irreplaceable. Perhaps put it over to The Nature Conservancy or other programs to preserve the area and work with those living there to reduce any current environmental impacts. More porta potties along the beach park there would also help immensely. If a town were to be built please set in place laws to prevent issues with runoff such as not requiring nonnative grass lawns or other non native plants that require pesticides, herbicides and fertilizer that would hurt the reef, not to forget any potential for waste water treatment overflows and leaks and storm drain runoff. Concerned about traffic. We do not have a hospital on the west side. I am 80 and am concerned that I would not be able to get to the hospital if I needed it. We do not have roads that can handle the traffic if this development is passed.

We have the rest of our lives to stand by our actions -- let's take this slowly, seriously. Building up Oluwalu is probably inevitable one day in the future, and we only have one chance to do it right. The first steps of construction are just as important as how the property is managed for the rest its life. Do the EIS properly. Do this properly. What is the rush to destroy sacred land and ocean?

When will enough be enough. We are Hawai'i, let us please keep it like Hawai'i should be. What would Hawai'i be if it is filled with foreigners and non Hawaiians in Hawaiian lands. What would Hawai'i be if hotels are blocking our views what would Hawai'i be if our ocean is destroyed. People come to Hawai'i to experience our culture and life style. If people come and realize we are becoming and looking like where they just came from we will have no tourist. Im 19 years old and i feel like i have a better view and idea for Hawai'i than Profesional developers. It is only commen sense. If it is money you are seeking for just remember you will forever be looking for happiness &that money is the root to all evil. ALOHA& MAHALO

The environment is extremely important. Once you develop past capacity, the impacts multiply and ultimately you will risk the benefits that the environment currently offers its residents and tourists and will be destroyed at the short term monetary benefits that more housing will offer.

The coral reef ecosystem must be saved at all costs. You can't put a price on nature. Your islands are all precious with their surrounding reefs. I have seen the Maui one so save it. Big business is trying to kill our Great Barrier Reef off Queensland. It takes 100's of years for the coral to grow.

Aloha I'm a full time resident with concerns of what the future Olawalu home development will bring. Also, what those major human impacts will have on our existing reefs and island. My concerns are with the negative results it will have on our environment due to large scale construction, sedimentation, sewage and chemical pollution to our reefs and changes cause by creating further problems with our roads and air quality . I am against this development and reject the EIS due to the effects this will have on our island and reef in Olawalu.

Olowalu is one of the easy places to get to to snorkel. You can all but guarantee that there will be massed of runoff finishing off the coral that the bleaching has not already killed. Please keep a little bit of Maui alive. Maybe only allow people to BUY property once they have REALLY lived here for over five years to cool the market.

The rate at which homes and condo buildings are being built has increased immensely in the past several years. The roads cannot handle as there are regular back ups causing hours of traffic for those who need to commute to the other side of the island. Tourists do not want to go on vacation and sit in traffic. The land and ecosystems are suffering and most of the properties are all bought by investors, not the people of Maui.

The purposed development would negatively effect the Nene birds who nest in Olowalu and the coral off our shore. In order to have a sustainable furture we ned agricultural land to feed our people. The more we develop our open land the more we pave away reasons for toursist to come here. The more we look like the mainland the less special our island becomes, which gives people less reason to come visit here.

The overcrowding does not take into consideration, the poor all over Oahu and the terrible price we are paying for the railroad. Originally to go from Ewa Beach to UH and they believed it. Changed to where the new housing is going up in the middle of the island by the airport and into Wikiki. Who would have thought it. Guess who.

Having lived on Maui for many years I know this area very well. I have surfed, snorkeled, and enjoyed the coast in Olowalu. I also know how crowded the island is becoming and adding a large group of homes to this area is a very bad idea, more traffic, the road is already too busy, pollution going into the ocean, etc. ,etc. Enough already! ANY and ALL development that is done at Olowalu will have a negative impact on both the reef and an traffic on the already congested Lahaina Pali highway. Go this route if you must, but understand that you are helping to destroy the Maui we know and love.

The development of this project will overburden an already overburdened roadway and strain already strained traffic conditions past the breaking point. I drove past Olowalu 2x a day on my work commute, like thousands of others on Maui. The reef along Olowalu is one of the best remaining and a sewage treatment outfall would severely threaten its survival and perhaps destroy it. Mahalo nui loa no kou kokua. To the land commission. I reject, along with my entire family, the plan for the Olowalu town development. Seriously, do you not get that this growth is overtaking Maui, the environment and so much more. I can't even believe you would consider such a thing. Is it for money? There are other ways to create jobs and a thriving economy. Look toward the future of food security for one. We are in no way secure now. We have work to do here before we create more homes, cars, garbage and homeless people. Get a grip on the reality of what the future looks like if you do this. I vote NO. Our Roads are not ready for this amount of additional cars. It will destroy our reefs. We are lagging medical support on West Maui. Please this large of a development is just bad for the Island. Our inter structure for west Maui can not support such a development. Tourism and our quality of life suffer and we run the risk of destroying the reefs. Thank you Absolutely! I not only want to sign the petition, I want to help with the protest! I live in Hawaii - not on Maui, on Kauai - but thoughtless, self-serving, unchecked growth is rampant on ALL our islands! It continues - even though the vast majority of the Islanders hate the ugly new developments - because no one wants to be the first to begin a petition or start a protest! There's too much at stake to sit idle - if we don't act, all the beauty of the islands will be gone forever & we will all look as built up & soulless as Honolulu! And what a HUGE loss that would be!!!

Hawaiian sea turtle tumour (fibropapillomatosis) is a debilitating disease which tragically attacks the young animals after they enter the ocean. It is scientifically linked to environmental pollution and stress. This is serious indicator of the poor state of Maui's ocean ecosystem. On top of coral bleaching and other changes visible over last few decades. Need a forward thinking plan to protect and restore whole area - land and ocean- to native habitat. All other arguments also apply - infrastructure, traffic, ocean access, water, run off, etc. For those that need a $$ reason, degredation of environment is not attractive to the tourists upon whom the whole economy depends. Healthy turtles are- and they are affected by land use. Maui is slowly but surely killing the goose that lays the golden egg. Use tourist tax revenue to invest in future and give the ocean a little time and space to recover. Save Olowalu.

The city of Seattle's quality of life is being rapidly destroyed by over-development. Population has exceeded sustainability of infrastructure. A similar situation threatens West Maui, by a much greater magnitude. Not only will more automobiles mean more pollution of all sorts - noise and air- but the coral reef ecosystem likely would be destroyed. Take a tip from what's occurring in Seattle and have the courage to go in the opposite direction. If you don't, you will lose what's called Paradise.

This is a tough one, but naturally I will sign the petition as I know Maui well and the Olowalu area. If our government would just look at Oahu. I think we need to stabilize and correct what is here now to improve the environment and our Society as a whole. You know the battle. Our elder's generation Impeached a very corrupt president and put an end to the Vietnam conflict. Since then it has only gotten worse. Americans were" lulled to sleep". Good Luck...

Aloha Members of the Land Use Commission, I Trisha Cabral live in Haiku, HI and oppose the proposed Olowalu town development because it will be a disaster for Maui. Traffic to Lahaina is already unbearable and there are thousands of homes yet to be built in other West Maui locations, the area is in a tsunami inundation zone, there are fire threats nearly every year, and a majority of the homes will not be affordable to the average local families here on Maui. This area will likely end up becoming a ghost town of vacation homes like Launiauapoko and Wailea. In addition, this development threatens the very existence of the last well developed coral reef on the island. You find 700+ year old kupuna coral colonies that seed adjacent reefs. Coral experts worldwide have told us that this development will exacerbate the affects global climate change and ocean acidification cause. I ask you to stand with us and reject the Olowalu town development for the sake of future generations and a healthy thriving coral reef ecosystem. Mahalo, Olowalu is a magnificent area & home of native species. When I lived in Maui I enjoyed hiking, running and swimming in Olowalu. I also remember the traffic at that area. A development in Olowalu will just not work and will bring terrible traffic to an area that it's already experiencing this issues.

I'm a graduate student in ecology on the mainland and cannot believe that my state government is supporting yet another land development project. Any presumed benefit in terms of construction costs and additional taxes cannot possibly outweigh the cost to native species, and air and water quality. You've been entrusted to do the right thing for all of the people you serve, not just a few. Listen to what your community is saying, and save Olowalu.

As a former long time resident of Olowalu, I have seen the detrimental impact on the environment (on and off shore) in the area, because of the increased amount of development activity. The infrastructure was never sufficiently developed prior to increased development and population. The magnitude being proposed for this considerable housing development will likely further increase the kind of environmental pressures, that will ultimately impact the quality of shore and off-shore life in the future.

We need to save ag lands for ag, preserve landscape and reef below. Maui is a special place and our economy is based on tourism. Traffic is already terrible. If we continue to destroy the the aina and reefs, people will not want to spend their vacation here. Where will the water for this development come from? We do NOT need another town on Maui, especially up slope from one of the best reefs in Hawaii. History has shown us that even with best management practices, development up-slope from reefs leads to their decline.

We need to go to the source. We as the people of Hawaii need to know who is responsible for allowing this to happen.. One of the last pristine, easily accessible areas on West Maui that is use by locals and tourist alike. The reef at Olowalu is unique to any in Hawaii. Our reefs are currently suffering from extreme ocean temperatures. To put any further stress on them could push them to the point of no return. Also, the plan for for their 1700 home city doesw not realistically address affordable housing and our infrastructure is already pushed to it's limit.

As a avid snorkeler and paddle boarder I love visiting the Olowalu reef. There is nowhere else like it on Maui, and we need to save this precious ecosystem so that our marine life can (hopefully) return one day. In addition the land above the highway should be devoted to the cultivation of Kalo and other traditional crops. Much of the land should be put into conservation preventing future developments as well. We need to protect this beautiful and bountiful area. Thank you for your time.
