Working for an airline, I get to travel and search out beautiful places, like Kauai.

What I have learned is that so many special places are eventually overrun. What draws people to a place is turned into a commodity, marketed, sold and becomes soulless. Please don't allow this to happen here on Kauai.

In addition there are many who live here that have a vision that we could be self sustaining, growing not only our only food, but investing in fields of for example hemp that in turn can spark many worthwhile side products ranging from building material to clothing and household items.

While many cite traffic, and affordability concerns my biggest concern is one of honoring and celebrating the better than Camelot nature of Kauai.

Thank you for all you do that helps build a Kauai that we love!
